News Coverage Hurting Calley, Lawyers Claim

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) Defense lawyers are intensifying their attempt to show that Lt. William L. Calley Jr., charged with murdering 102 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai in March 1968, cannot get a fair trial because of news coverage of the case.

Approximately six hours of television newsfilm relating to the Calley charges and the alleged massacre have been shown during a pretrial hearing.

In addition, George W. Latimer, Calley's chief civilian attorney, said Wednesday he had hundreds of clippings from newspapers and magazines which he would offer as evidence that pretrial publicity has jeopardized a fair trial.

The defense contends the charges should be dismissed and the case ended.

Maj. Kenneth A. Raby, the lieutenant's military lawyer, indicated that the defense might ask that television news reporting of each session of the hearing be made part of the exhibits relating to pretrial publicity.

Lt. Col. Reid Kennedy, the presiding military judge, told Raby the defense had the opportunity to demand that the hearings be closed to the press but had insisted on Calley's right to a free and open trial.

U.P. Plus Mark

Upper Michigan's wood industry chalked up another plus mark when the Edward Hines Lumber Co. in Marquette received a shipment of 600 four by eight-foot sheets of exterior glue aspen plywood sheathing. It represented the first commercial shipment from the new Iron Wood Products Co. plant in Bessemer. The Hines Lumber Co. ordered the shipment for wholesale merchandising to lumber dealers in the Upper Peninsula.

Beginning of production by Iron Wood Products is especially significant because it represents yet another step in Gogebic County's surprising economic recovery and because it will contribute to the revitalization of logging in the Northern Peninsula.

Gogebic County probably was harder hit by the economic reverses of the past decade than any other county in the Upper Peninsula. One by one, its deep shaft iron mines closed. Unable to find employment, its younger residents moved out. Unemployment was high among those who remained.

A group with the awkward designation of GO-INC (standing for Gogebic Organization for an Industrially New County) was formed to try to fill the economic vacuum created by loss of the mines. Efforts like this apparently turned

Two large ski resorts - Indianhead and Powderhorn - were carved out of the hills northeast of Ironwood and began drawing throngs of skiers on winter weekends, bringing new tourist dollars to restaurants, motels, gas stations and other small businesses in the area. Large federal loans and grants made possible the construction of North America's first ski flying hill at Copper Peak, where later this month thousands of spectators are expected to witness the first ski flying tournament ever conducted outside of Europe. Meanwhile, several new industries located in Gogebic County, not the least of which is Iron Wood Products.

Developed at a cost of $3.85 million in both private and federal funds, the plant now employs 111 persons. Many of them were trained for their new jobs through a $29,399 federal Manpower Development and Training Program of the type that has been so successfully carried out by Northern Michigan University.

Besides the veneer mill, the operation includes a large sawmill for turning out lumber from hardwoods.

The operation utilizes aspen exclusively for production of plywood but will use sawlogs in its second mill. Portions of aspen logs not used in the manufacture of plywood are reduced to small wood chips for sale to paper mills. Between 18 and 20 carloads of these chips will be shipped from the plant by rail each week.

Raw timber for the mill is purchased from lakes or rivers of one's youth, spring" anyway. As Koch puts independent loggers in the Gogebic area through the firm's purchasing subsidiary Iron Wood Timber and Development Co.

Consumption of timber by Iron Wood Products obviously will produce additional jobs among woods workers in the western Upper Peninsula. Stepped up logging operations also should benefit wildlife.

"What happens at the Iron Wood Products operation will affect us tremendously," said Duane Packer, Ironwood, timber management staffman for the Ottawa National Forest. He was referring to the sale of timber from the national forest. By extension, what happens at the new plant could have a tremendous impact on a lot of things in the western Upper Peninsula.

Interestingly, William F. Austin, president of Iron Wood Products, said the other day that his firm currently is studying plans for other operations in other areas of the Upper Peninsula and northern Wisconsin. More power to them.

Burial Is Burial

Fourteen years after Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev boasted "we will bury you," some people in this country are still trying to say he didn't really mean it.

Not long ago a prominent member of the U. S. Senate became involved in Russian language exercise to show that Khrushchev's threat was only a jest without any particular menace. Secretary of State William P. Pogers agreed. As one writer put it: "Rogers . . . has set the record straight with an opinion that Khrushchev did not mean physical burial . . . The State Department is convinced that Khrushchev used the phrase in a figurative sense — to dramatize the Marxist-Leninist thesis that capitalism eventually would be replaced by Communism."

Hence Khruschev really meant peaceful competition between the two systems, and we are supposed to conclude there is no danger in seeking accommodations with the Kremlin.

In 1956, the same year Khrushchev issued his famous boast, it was not in a figurative sense that the Soviet Union buried Hungary. After Khrushchev gave the appearance of withdrawing and consenting to the establishment of a non-Communist socialist government, Russian tanks came smashing back into Budapest.

Hungarian patriots were indeed buried and not in a figurative sense.

Nor in the summer of 1968 was Czechoslovakia's burial a semantical illusion. To the Czechs and the Slovaks is was very real and very physical.

From the time Stalin buried several million kulaks in forced collectivization of Russian farms through the purge trials of the 1930s to Hungary and now Czechoslovakia, Communist tyranny has shown remarkable consistency. The methods employed by this dictatorship have changed little from 1917 to 1970.

It is conservatively estimated that upwards of 20 million people have been buried by Soviet purges, repressions, and conquests.

But, although this record is clear, some people still refuse to take Khruschev's word literally.

Sen. Ed Muskie of Maine and Sen. Gaylord Nelson of Wisconsin, both Democrats, are hoping to ride to glory on the anti-pollution issue. But President Richard Nixon is bound that he-and the Republican Party along with him-will get One's personal feeling of elan about the coming battle for a decontaminated world, however, is a little dashed when one has one's nose rubbed in the scientific complexity of some of the choices that lie ahead of us.

Do we actually know where the balance lies when it comes to applying pesticides, for example? DDT is supposedly bad, for certain species of birds at any rate. But it is also bad for disease-bearing mosquitoes and flies and many crop-eating

* * *

The Federal government, listening to the anti-DDT clamor, has decided in favor of the birds, which means that the mosquitoes are going to get a reprieve, too. But now a most unusual warning comes from a friend of mine, Robert Sullivan of Sheerlund Forest, Penn., who is in the business of growing Christmas trees. He says that complete elimination of DDT could mean the end of Christmas trees as we know

The reason is that, since the growing abandonment of DDT, the gypsy moth is on the move again. It has been infesting larger forest areas of New England, New York, New Jersey, and Eastern Pennsylvania, and has been moving into Canada and Virginia.

John A. Koch, president of the Pennsylvania Christmas Tree Growers' Association, tells of one large isolated patch of trees in Centre County, Pennsylvania, that has been completely denuded of foliage.

In the case of deciduous trees, the stripping of the leaves is not immediately fatal, though growth is naturally stopped while the tree waits for a new springtime suit of greenery. Deciduous trees can stand some punishment, but not too much. With conifers, however, death invariably follows a first complete defoliation.

Once before in our history we stood to lose much of the tree cover of northeastern America. The gypsy moth, imported to the U.S. in 1869 for silk experiments only to turn into a pest, was brought under control by arsenate sprays.

But arsenates had such a dangerously high toxicity that dial invitation is extended to all

Koch and Sullivan do not profess to be ecologists. And neither of them wants to witness the "silent spring" that Rachel Carson predicted if pesticides were to kill off the But unless we can come up

How unpolitically pleasant it with a good substitute for would be to swim again in the DDT, we may get a "silent or to take the winter sun in it, "I wonder what all the birds when there aren't any leaves on any of the trees?" Koch and Sullivan, since they raise tree crops, might be accused of making self-serving statements. But Hardin B. Jones, a professor of Medical Physics and Physiology at the University of California in Berkeley, who has no Christmas tree investment to defend, thinks that DDT is a "remarkable compound which has done more than any other chemical to make the world comfortable and to increase the food supply dissolved in body fat. The use of organic pesticides was a significant step of improvement because theretofore many foods were contaminated with arsenic and lead containing pesticides which probably did have a detrimental effect on health."

I got into the first car that stoppeda blue sedan. A middle-aged man was driving. Within two minutes I knew I had made a big mistake. The man looked as if he'd been drinking. He asked me some crazy questions. Suddenly he turned into a side street and then onto a dirt road.

I thought of jumping out, but the doors were locked and he was driving pretty fast. Suddenly, he stopped behind a clump of trees, dragged me out of the car and tried to rape me. I managed to get free and ran for my life. He chased me and I fell. Before I could get up, he literally pulled me up by the hair and began to beat me to "make we behave." got loose and started to run again-this time into a barbedwire fence. Somehow I crawled through a hole in the fence and hid behind a clump of bushes. He lost sight of me so I kept my head down and remained still. I must have lain there for 20 minutes when I heard his car drive off.

I then began to walk home. It was the longest walk of my life. I had hurt my knee and my head was bleeding where he hit me. I stopped at the first house I saw and called the police. They came and got me and drove me home. I'm still recovering from sprains and bruises, but I'm lucky to be alive.

Pork Sausage, Apricots Make Quick Treat

When you want to serve your family something special but don't have time to prepare an elaborate dish, try this recipe for Sausage-Apricot Treat, suggests Reba Staggs, home economist with the National Live Stock and Meat Board. You'll find this casserole is aptly named as it is truly a flavor treat.

Pork sausage takes only about 10 minutes to precook and brown. Then it's quickly combined with mushroom soup, milk, spices and apricot halves; topped with refrigerated rolls and baked for 30 minutes.

How's that for quick and easy, yet satisfying, service!

Sausage-Apricot Treat 2 pounds fresh (bulk) pork

1 can (10½ ounces) condensed mushroom soup

2 tablespoons milk 1/4 teaspoon ginger

1/4 teaspoon curry powder 1/4 teaspoon salt

1 can (16 ounces) apricot halves, drained

1 package (8 ounces) refrigerated butterflake dinner rolls, if desired

New Measure Proposes Family Relations Dept.

LANSING (AP)-A new State Department of Family Relations, to take over all court functions in the areas of divorce, annulment, child custody and separate maintenance, would be created under a bill proposed by Rep. John Bennett, D-Redford

Bennett said his bill "sharply limits the role of attorneys in divorce cases because they are not trained to reconcile marriages in trouble, but rather they are interested in securing the divorce and collecting their

"This bill is a modern approach to a serious problem in today's society and it sets sane guidelines of custody, visitation, alimony, support and property, Bennett said. "It eliminates bitter and painful court battles over divorce, property settlement, child custody and child support." Bennett said similar legislation is under consideration in Maine and other states.

The measure proposes the department be run by a six-member commission appointed by the governor with the consent of the Senate. The commissioners would come from the fields of sociology, either psychology or psychiatry, theology, education, marriage counseling and either accounting or budgeting.

Jackie's Letters Are Seized At New York Gallery

NEW YORK (AP) - The district attorney's office said today it was continuing its investigation of whether letters written by Mrs. Jacqueline Onassis to onetime federal official Roswell Gilpatric were stolen and if so, by whom Gilpatric, 64, former undersecretary of defense during the Kennedy administration now practicing law here, was quoted as saying the "Dear Ross" letters from Mrs. Onassis were taken from his office files. Mrs. Onassis was President John F. Kennedy's wife.

The district attorney also is looking into the identity of a man who turned the letters over to the Charles Hamilton autograph galleries four months ago and on Tuesday returned to Hamilton a $500 advance he had received for the letters.

Hamilton, who declined to disclose the man's identity but said he is believed to be a former law associate of Gilpatric, said he asked the man to tell his side of the affair to reporters but got this reply:

"No one would believe it. It sounds like an Alfred Hitchcock

Hamilton said the man told him he had received the letters in the mail with a request to put them up for auction. He did not disclose who mailed them.

The letters were seized at the gallery Tuesday by a detective from the district attorney's office with a subpoena.

Dear Heloise:

Recently my husband was playing the handyman role at our house and decided to replace a broken window pane. This seemed like an easy enough job but he had an awful time trying to get that hardened putty off so he could get the old pane out.

Legion Auxiliary Plans For Joint Meeting

The regular meeting of the Rheaume-Knauf American Legion Auxiliary was held Monday night in the Bark River Legion Clubrooms.

Tickets made by Mrs. Arthur Fournier for the Auxiliary Valentine card party which will be held Saturday, Feb. 14 in the Legion Hall, were distributed by Mrs. Betty Olson. Tickets will also be available at the door. Any member who has not been solicited for lunch is asked to donate a dollar.

On Monday evening, Jan. 19, five members of the Auxiliary, Mrs. Hector Larson, Mrs. Edward Motto, Mrs. Lloyd Bruce, Mrs. Martin Kwarciany and Mrs. Kenneth Taylor, packed and wrapped 19 Valentine cans which were sent to area servicemen, instead of the annual Christmas boxes.

The March meeting, will be a joint meeting with the Legionaires. Preceding the potluck supper at 7 p.m. will be 6:30 p.m. cocktails. The joint meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Lunch was served during the social hour at the conclusion of the meetings by Mrs. Robert LaVigne, Mrs. John Moniowczak and Mrs. Philip Norman.

BULLHEADS FIGHT FOR OXYGEN after pushing a large hole in St. Paul lake over the weekend. The air-starved fish are short of oxygen because the snow cover on the ice-covered lakes seek sunlight from the underwater plant life which produce oxygen for the fish. Several holes were cut in the ice by residents to provide air for the fish but thousands are expected to suffocate if the ice cover doesn't melt soon.

Difficult To Enforce

The Department of Licensing and regulation, meanwhile, set up a memo to the House committee on Consumer Protection and Agriculture saying it didn't want to handle the proposal because of the difficulty of enforcement. It suggested instead that the Department of Commerce take it over because it had many more auditors.

State Ponders New Pact With Blue Shield

LANSING (AP) - The state budget director plans to meet with top officials of Michigan Blue Shield today to discuss whether or not the state should drop its contract with the private agency for administering the $35 million medicaid pro-

Glenn S. Allen Jr., state budget director, said the meeting with John C. McCabe, Blue Michau Shield president, "could lead to a modification or a change in the contract."

Blue Shield, a private, nonprofit agency, is under fire from some lawmakers and the Social Services Department.

"We've got to do something," Allen said Wednesday. "Not necessarily breaking the contract, but clarifying it at least.' The program is under review by Gov. William G. Milliken's staff and will undergo another audit by Albert Lee, auditor general, beginning next week. State Sen. Charles O. Zollar, R-Benton Harbor, has charged that Blue Shield is overcharging the state for its administration 1948 WILLY'S JEEP four wheel of the program and that doctors are making fraudulent claims under the program, which pro- 1963 CHEVROLET, Six cylinder envides medical service for lowincome people.

"Blue Shield has failed to provide us with information we need to keep proper control of this thing," Allen said. He declined to say what information was missing.

At the request of Zollar and others, Lee's office last summer examined claims submitted by doctors. The latest audit will focus on a $2.37 million billreflecting a more than 42 per cent increase—that Blue Shield submitted for administering the program last year. Allen's office, meanwhile, is Bowling Notes

"There are a couple of other outfits." Allen says, that could h.ndle a state contract to pay fees of doctors, hospitals and nursing homes for care of the elderly.
